SUMMARY

Workforce is a top concern for Health Center oral health programs struggling with issues of recruitment, retention, training, salary, and turnover rates. The National Network for Oral Health Access (NNOHA) worked with the Baylor College of Dentistry in 2009 to develop and administer a survey of Health Center dental providers. The purpose of the survey was to provide information and analysis on dental salaries, provider satisfaction, and recruitment and retention strategies at Health Centers throughout the country.

Through this presentation, the participants will:

- Understand national trends in Health Center dental workforce;
- Gain insight on factors that may affect recruitment and retention of dental providers; and
- Learn how to formulate strategies for improving their recruitment and retention efforts.
